STEEPED IN CRIME.

Three Young Desperadoes Were Captured by Chicago Officers Near Liverpool, Ind.

MADE DESPERATE RESISTANCE.

One Man Was Killed, Another Fatally Wounded and All Three of the Bandits Wounded.

It Is Alleged They Committed Nine Murders, Wounding Five Men and a Long Series of Robberies Are Charged to Them.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Chained wrist to wrist, their hair matted with dried blood, their clothing covered with dust and dirt—two beardless boys, Peter Neldermeier and Harvey Van Dine, sat Friday night in the presence of Mayor Harrison and Chief of Police O'Neill calmly confessing to their share in a three months' career of crime which has included nine murders, the wounding of five other men, and a long series of robberies. The two young bandits, neither of whom is over 21 years old, together with their companion, Emil Doeskie, who is no older, were captured near Liverpool, Ind., Friday after a fight in which they battled against policemen, railroad detectives, railroad laborers and farmers. One man was killed, another fatally wounded and all three of the young bandits were wounded, but not seriously.

The dead: T. J. Sovea, brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad. Wounded: Joseph Driscoll, detective on Chicago police force, shot through abdomen and can live but a short time; Matthew Zimmer, detective on Chicago police force, shot in head and arm.

THE CAR BURN MURDER.

The Three Outlaws Were Wanted For Complicity in That Crime.

Niedermeier was wounded in the head by bird shot. Van Dine was similarly injured and sustained in addition a flesh wound in the left thigh. Doeskie was shot in the right hip. His wound is the most serious of any inflicted upon the three men, but was not sufficient to prevent him from traveling a long distance after receiving it.

The three men were wanted by the police for complicity in the murders at the car barns of the Chicago City Railway Co. on August 30, when two men were killed, a third badly wounded and $2,250 stolen from the company.

Gustave Marx, who last Saturday night murdered Officer John Quinn when the policeman endeavored to place him under arrest, confessed after his capture that he, in company with the three men, had committed the crimes at the car barns. The hunt for Van Dine, Niedermeier and Doeskie has been hot ever since. Although they knew that the entire police force was looking for them, the three men remained in the city until Wednesday morning. "We were 'laying' for a fellow that was a witness against Marx," said Van Dine. On Wednesday they left Chicago, going to a dugout made by railroad laborers near the tracks of the Michigan Central road near Millers, Ind. Thursday night they spent in another dugout near Millers Station, Ind., and there they were surprised by the police Friday morning.

LIVING IN A DUGOUT.

The Two Opened a Hot Fire on the Chicago Detectives.

Word was brought to the police Thursday night by T. S. Reichers, a school teacher near Clark Station, Ind., that three men answering the description of those wanted for the car barn murders were living in the dugout. The police sent only eight men, Detectives Zimmer, DeRoche, Qualey, Gleason, Sheehan, Driscoll, Baumer and Hughes to Indiana, Sheehan being placed in charge of the squad. The men reached the dugout at about 3 o'clock, guided by Reichers. As soon as they were in sight of the place the officers advanced in a circle upon the dugout where the three robbers were supposed to be concealed.

Driscoll picked up a chunk of wood and hurled it at the dugout. Instantly there was a flash, a report and Driscoll fell in a heap, shot through the abdomen. One of his fellow officers stopped to raise him, and the other six opened fire on the dugout, from which the shots were now coming thick and fast. While the fire was at its hottest, Van Dine and Doeskie rushed out, followed a few minutes later by Niedermeier. The latter ran to the tracks of the Michigan Central railroad and, throwing himself flat on the roadbed, steadied his arm on the rail as he kept up a rapid fire with three revolvers. Doeskie ran for the brush, but Van Dine retreated slowly, although the air was filled with bullets and the snow at his feet was kicked up by them. He is a splendid marksman, and, catching sight of Detective Zimmer, who was behind a tree, he fired. Zimmer went down with a bullet in the head. As he fell, Van Dine fired again and the second bullet went through Zimmer's arm.

MADE A RUN FOR FREEDOM.

Captured a Switch Engine and Killed the Brakeman.

Doeskie had by this time disappeared and Van Dine and Niedermeier, placing their revolvers in their pockets, made a run for freedom. The detectives fired constantly, but the bandits escaped. After running about a mile across country, they came to the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad. A switch engine with a train of cars was close at hand, and, hurrying up to it, they ordered Brakeman Sovea to uncouple the train from the locomotive. He refused and attempted to take Niedermeier's revolver from him. The latter instantly sent a bullet through the brakeman's brain, laying him dead in the snow. Springing past Sovea's body, the bandits mounted the locomotive with revolvers in hand and ordered the engineer to move out in a hurry, which he did, going in the direction of Liverpool, Ind. After two miles had been covered, the men ordered the engineer to slow down and leaping to the ground, disappeared in the woods. After the train had carried the men away, the detectives rushed to the nearest telegraph station and wired to Chief Police O'Neill asking that men be sent out with rifles.

Arriving at the place they were soon close on the fugitive's heels. The men were seen as they dodged about in the sand dunes and the farmers that had gathered, most of whom were armed with double-barreled shotguns, opened fire on them. Niedermeier received a charge full in the head and the blood streamed down his face and into his eyes, blinding him so that he could hardly see.

ARMED FARMERS GATHERED.

After a Sharp Fight Two of the Fugitives Surrendered to Officers.

A shot grazed Van Dine's head, carrying off some of his hair and his wounded leg was weakened. The posse was closing in on all sides. There was no escape and it was evident to both men that the time had come either to surrender or fight to the death. Both men were heavily armed and able to take more lives before both lost their own; but as Van Dine said Friday night, in discussing his surrender: "There would have been no good in that as we never shoot anybody unless we have to, and killing any of these fellows would not have let me off. The jig was up for us, no matter how many we killed. I said to Pete: 'Well, what do you think?' He nodded his head and dropped his guns, and that's how they got us."

THEIR CRIMINAL RECORD.

A List of the Men Killed and Wounded By the Desperadoes.

The list of the four boys' victims killed and wounded in the last half years follows:

AN AGED CRANK.

He Made His Way to the President's Side and Handed Him a Letter.

New York, Nov. 28.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt Friday attended the funeral of the president's uncle, James King Grace. Just as the services were concluded at the Church of the Holy Communion Arthur Deming, 65, stepped before the president and handed him a letter, saying: "Please read this on your way out."

By the time the president threw the letter down the astonished detectives had grabbed the man, and he was hustled to police headquarters.

Deming carried a can containing charcoal. Deming said it was medicated and would cure all ills. He said that he had written to Emperor William and his doctors about it, but received no reply, and he thought to get Mrs. Roosevelt interested, that she might send it to the emperor.

After completing an investigation into the manner in which Deming gained entrance into the church and reached the side of the president, Police Commissioner Greene announced Friday night that he was not satisfied with the explanation made by the police who were in charge at the church and that he would place Capt. Cottrell on trial on charges of failing to make proper arrangements. Three detectives and two policemen who were on guard at the church will also be placed on trial.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Arthur P. Deming, who was arrested in New York while trying to hand a letter to the president, is well known in this city, and is regarded here as harmless. Several years ago he was a familiar figure on the streets where he sold powdered charcoal as a remedy for indigestion.

Train is president, will accompany the flotilla that they make a report to the secretary based on their personal observation of the conduct of the boats. If the test cruise is satisfactory the board will leave the flotilla at Charleston and return to Washington, the flotilla proceeding on to Key West and thence to Culebra, whence they will sail later for the Asiatic station by way of the Mediterranean. CANNED SARDINES

Two Families Which Partook of Them Were Poisoned at Pulaski, Ind.

FOUR OF THE VICTIMS ARE DEAD.

The Inside of the Can, on Examination, Was Discovered to Be Rust Eaten.

Physicians State the Deaths Were From Ptomaine Poisoning; Others Claim It Was Muratic Acid Used By the Tinner.

Winamac, Ind., Nov. 28.—There is intense excitement among the citizens of the village of Pulaski over developments surrounding the poisoning of the Miller and Johns families. Hard, white specks that resemble granulated sand have been found mixed with vinegar and mustard of the canned sardines eaten by the Millers and Johns.

Friday four burial caskets stood side by side in the home of the Millers, containing the remains of Jacob Miller, Frank and Kate Miller, husband and wife, and her father, John Johns. They had eaten from a can of mixed vinegar, mustard and sardines. Later the two Miller brothers complained of strange blindness, and retired to their rooms. Early Thursday morning they died from strangulation. Later Mrs. Kate Miller and her father were attacked in a similar manner, and they died. Three of the Miller children rejected the sardines on account of a bitter taste.

Public opinion is divided as to the cause of the deaths. Physicians state that it was from ptomaine poison; others claim it was poisoning caused by muriatic acid mixing with the vinegar and mustard during the tinner's process of sealing the can. Examination of the can and contents show the inside of the can to be rust eaten, and stony white, hard specks, similar to fine sand, were found. The sardines appear to have been decayed before they were put into the box and sealed.

Jacob Miller some time ago made a will bequeathing his portion of farm lands to his brother's children, and Mrs. Kate Miller had done likewise for her children.

After the accident, which occurred on December 30, 1901, Charters proclaimed himself "Daniel the Prophet," and wrote a book entitled "Daniel's Vision and Mission; Is Heaven Real; Is Hell Real?" He preached on the streets and established a prosperous mission.

Charters a few weeks ago fully recovered from his injury and then declared that the interval since the accident was a blank to him. He had no knowledge of having written a book. After reading the book he pronounced its contents idiotic.

A CAN OF MILK.

Experts Say That It Developed the Typhoid in Williams College.

Williamstown, Mass., Nov. 28.—The experts engaged by President Henry Hopkins, of Williams college, have determined to their satisfaction that the source of typhoid which recently developed among the students and at one time threatened to assume the form of a serious epidemic, was a can of milk. The theory is that the milk was cooled in impure water and that a little of the infected water accidentally got into the milk.

EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & McCARTHY,
Proprietors.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28 1903.

TWENTY cents a pound for Thanksgiving turkey was just a little too, too, for many Maysville people who have been accustomed to feasting on the Kentucky bird at 8 and 10 cents.

THE grader and roller recently purchased by the Mason Fiscal Court at a cost of about $2,200 has demonstrated that it is just the machine for putting the roads of the county in proper shape and condition. It is estimated that the saving to the county by substituting this method for the old-out-of-date plan of doing such work will more than pay for the machine in a year or so. What is needed next is a good rock crusher, and the county will then be in a position to maintain her free pikes in an up-to-date and economical manner.

The Restaurant Royal on Market street, east side, three doors south of Second, is always ready to serve meals, day or night. About seventy-five guests at the Assembly hall called unexpectedly at this restaurant at midnight last night, but the proprietress soon served all with a tempting spread.

Shoppers from the country will find no better place to get their meals than at Restaurant Royal.

The two hundred foot lawn in front of the Kentucky State Building at the World's Fair is being sown in blue grass, so it will present an attractive appearance when the Exposition opens next April 30. This work is in charge of Mr. Henry Nanz, the Chairman of the Floricultural Committee of the Exhibit Association. In addition to sowing the lawn in blue grass, Mr. Nanz is transplanting all the beautiful shrubbery native to Kentucky. In March he will set out numerous flower beds, so the picture will become more beautiful as spring glides into summer.

Chief Milan H. Hulbert, of the Department of Manufactures of the World's Fair, has written the Kentucky Exhibit Association that his department has decided to install all exhibits of individual women's work, such as embroidery, hand-made lace, decorated china, typography, etc. He will assign a limited area in the Varied Industries Building for a showcase to accommodate decorated china and like exhibits, and in the textiles section of the Manufacturers' Building to accommodate embroidery, general needlework, etc. The Kentucky Exhibit Association invites all Kentucky women interested in these displays to correspond with its secretary at Louisville on the subject.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR.

Hundreds of Maysville Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Maysville people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Maysville reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far-away places. Read the following:

Mr. C. L. Hubbard, dairyman, of 325 West Third street, says: "I have the greatest faith in Doan's Kidney Pills. The use of less than one box ended a disturbed condition on the kidneys and an inflammation of the bladder. After some time it returned but in a lesser degree and I procured another box of Doan's Kidney Pills at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store. Use of it substantiated the opinion I had already formed of this effective preparation."

THE TELEPHONE SYSTEM.

It Furnishes Many Advantages to the Farmers—An Ally For Peace, Safety and Prosperity.

[Southern Farm Magazine.]

Farmers are getting rural free delivery, with its opportunities for saving time and money in shopping; in the more thickly-settled portions of the country they have rapid transit by trolley lines, and in some parts, notably in the West, they enjoy the advantages in business and farm operations of extensive telephone systems. All of these agencies for the improvement of the conditions of farm life are enjoyed to some extent in the South, but there is room for a wide expansion in that respect, especially as to the telephone. The investment in the installation of a system and in its rental is slight compared with the actual returns. With the telephone receiver at his ear the farmer is brought into close touch with his railroad station or his market miles away and can save himself many a weary ride and unnecessary journey by information thus quickly obtained.

Far removed from the daily paper, with its weather forecasts, he can keep informed by phone of probabilities and thus escape loss in crop time. When he himself is away from home the knowledge that the members of his family have a telephone at hand giving them the means of quick communication with neighbors is as great a protection against prowlers as is the possession of a shotgun or a revolver. The telephone on the farm is a cultivator of neighborliness, a saver of time and trouble and a protector of the home. It is an ally for peace, safety and prosperity which should be cultivated.

A cordial invitation is extended to every one to attend each of these services.

The venerable Senator Pettus, of Alabama, remarks: "The secret of living long is to work. I am eighty-one and healthy and happy as a boy. I notice that all my neighbors who got rich and retired are all dead. I never got rich and I never retired. I tell you, young man, the most fatal disease I know of is to quit work. It kills every time. Keep working and you'll keep alive."

"In the Midst of Life, There is Death."

WHEREAS, The Great and Supreme Ruler of the universe, has in His infinite wisdom, removed from among us one of our esteemed and dearly beloved friends and classmates, Miss Odessa Lyons, who departed this life Monday, November 9, 1903, and, whereas, the intimate friendship of the past few years has so endeared her to us, that it is with pangs of undecipherable grief and sorrow that we realize our loss.

The sudden removal of such a life from among our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by every one, especially by those to whom Oda was most dear. To her bereaved relatives we render our sincere sympathy and hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well.

As we think of the white robed form which now lies still and cold in her narrow bed, we are comforted by realizing that "the sweet soul now occupies the mansion prepared for it among the angels in the city of God," and could those still white lips utter the sentiments of the soul, she would say:

"Farewell, friends; yet not farewell. Where I am, ye too shall dwell. A moment's time, a little space: When ye come, where I have stepped, Ye will wonder why ye wept. Ye will know by wise love taught. That here is all, and there is naught." With loving memories to our dear friend. CARIE, MARY AND ALICE COLLINS, Greenup, Ky.

The members of the Mason Fiscal Court have been feasted on many occasions, but never more sumptuously than on Friday when Dr. J. H. Samuel, County Physician, and his accomplished wife did the honors as host and hostess.

At their hospitable and elegant home on Third street Dr. and Mrs. Samuel entertained the court and other county officials, together with representatives of the press and a few other friends, a dinner Friday, and the fortunate guests were given "a feast fit for kings." It was an elaborate spread, the menu embracing the season's most tempting delicacies, served in a manner that would have delighted an epicure. Effort Made to Bring About a Conference Between the Contestants.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 28.—After a conference between Gov. Wells and Messrs. Kelliher and Evans, national organizers of the United Mine Workers, and Col. E. F. Holmes, president of the Commercial club, efforts were begun to bring about a conference between officials of the Utah Fuel Co. and their striking miners in Carbon county. Kelliher and Evans come as the personal representatives of President John Mitchell and in their talk with the governor brought out a new phase of the situation. They maintain that recognition of the union is a subordinate issue, and that 20 per cent. increase in wages is the principal issue at stake. They also declared that the Utah miners are striking because of grievances of their own, and that they will go back to work when these are redressed regardless of what the Colorado miners do. Their statements were in radical variance from those of the Utah Fuel Co. officials.
